The Vermont Historical Society was chartered in 1838 by an act of the Vermont Legislature. It is an independent 501(c)(3) nonprofit membership organization, governed by a board of trustees.
THANKS to all our volunteers, who generously donated amazing amounts of time, talent, and energy to the Vermont Historical Society. Because of you, we have the impact and outreach of an organization twice our size.

I think everyone can agree that the COVID pandemic has made the past twelve months difficult for everyone. However, the Vermont Historical Society has thrived despite the many challenges the pandemic threw our way. In fact, VHS has concentrated on documenting the pandemic so future generations will be able to understand what a turbulent time this has been. Additions to the collection include everything from tiny empty vaccine containers and “I’ve been vaccinated!” stickers to the large highway signs telling visitors to Vermont to quarantine. One hundred years from now, historians will be able to compare and contrast both the 1918 and the 2020 pandemics.

In-person visitation was limited for much of the year at both the Museum in Montpelier and the History Center in Barre. This enabled the staff to achieve many of the goals the Society set for itself in its latest strategic plan. One of the major goals of the plan was to create a bigger online presence, and this we definitely accomplished. We offered new virtual classes such as Vermont Eats! (fall and spring cooking classes), home collections care classes, Vermont Trivia, and genealogy workshops, along with a symposium.

Local historical societies were challenged during this past year due to closures and a lack of visitors, but VHS was always there to help. Under the guidance of Eileen Corcoran, we established a mentors program, virtual roundtables, and an LHS listserv. We also offered a hybrid Care of Textiles workshop.

With our Museum open but visitation limited, Amanda Gustin, our public program manager, helped arranged new physical and online exhibits. Physical exhibits included: Lively and Local: Historical Societies in Vermont; The Catamount in Vermont; When Women Lead: Governor Madeleine Kunin of Vermont; and WPA Prints from the T.W. Wood Gallery. Online exhibits were available to “Vermonters at Heart” anywhere in the world, and those included: When Women Lead: Governor Madeleine Kunin of Vermont; ‘As in Your Conscience’; Voting in Vermont; “The War of Ideas”; Wartime Propaganda Posters; Innovation in Vermont; and Snelling Room Artwork.

Our online presence didn’t end just with exhibits. The staff also produced (and starred in) collections videos to highlight items selected by our collections manager, Teresa Greene. These featured things in our vast collection which aren’t always on display. New Before Your Time podcast episodes were produced, and our executive director Steve Perkins continued to travel around the state to produce This Place in History television vignettes in conjunction with Local 22/Local 44 News.

Work also continued apace with our library and museum collections. The Vermont Black History Database went online, and the number of items in both the museum online catalog and Digital Vermont increased dramatically. The quiet days of the early pandemic also enabled the librarians, under the leadership of Paul Carnahan, to add significantly to the Online Public Access Catalog.

Although few school groups were able to make it to the museum because of the pandemic, the education department under the leadership of Victoria Hughes adapted well. A Vermont History Museum virtual tour was created. The History for Homeschoolers programs were offered as in-person, Zoom, and at home classes. The Vermont History Explorer website received dramatic upgrades, and four new (virtual) Hands-on History classes were produced. For the second year Vermont History Day (part of National History Day) went virtual instead of in-person, and consequently the number of participants fell. However, the enthusiasm of the students remained high judging by the success of the online awards ceremony.

Clearly the Vermont Historical Society did not stand still during the pandemic. All our programs and activities need monetary support, and for this we thank the State of Vermont as well as our many donors. Tori Hart, our director of development, has worked hard at stewarding our members and keeping the Society in good fiscal health. She works hand-in-hand with John Grosvenor, our financial guru, who was instrumental in applying for the federal PPP loan which helped us weather the fiscal instability caused by the onset of the pandemic.

Much of the success of VHS is owed to our excellent executive director, Steve Perkins. His guidance, leadership, and vision have helped VHS expand its programming, increase its statewide visibility, and insure its fiscal stability.

This has been an unusual year for VHS, but despite the obstacles the pandemic presented, we continued our mission of preserving the past, informing the future, and promoting Vermont’s shared legacy to the future.

As President of the Board of Trustees of VHS it is my pleasure to report that after 183 years your Vermont Historical Society is thriving. For that I would like to thank the donors, the staff, the Board of Trustees, the State of Vermont, and our many volunteers who make it all possible.

Sincerely,

Barbara Mieder, President
As in the past, our four aspirational, strategic goals have guided our decision-making this year. Remarkably prescient, the following goals seemed uniquely adapted to our current world:

1. Provide Vermonters and Vermonters-at-heart the resources to access Vermont’s rich historical collections from anywhere in the world.
2. We will recognize and support local history efforts; understanding that local historical societies are an integral part of sharing and preserving Vermont’s story.
3. Vermonters will increase their knowledge of our state’s past and understand how their unique experience impacts and shapes this ongoing narrative. Guests will enrich their visit through a deeper understanding of Vermont and its people.
4. To build resilient and connected communities, students will understand Vermont’s history and its place in the world.

Our online presence, especially relating to content and collections, grew exponentially this year with new materials relating to all of our goals appearing weekly. Workshops, classes, and lectures engaged members and patrons from all over the world. It was so gratifying to meet former Vermont residents who were absolutely giddy with delight at the opportunity to participate in Vermont Historical Society activities. Over time, we hope to expand and refine these programs such that we can continue to engage our members whether they reside next door or on the other side of the planet.

Some things just have to happen in person. Hands-on workshops, object-based lessons, and programs for our students are a few examples. Though we accomplished much in a virtual format, we treasure these in-person interactions and look forward to a time when we can fully engage onsite at the Vermont History Center and the Vermont History Museum.

In these times of pandemic, civic upheaval, and societal change, we know you understand the power of understanding, analyzing, and being conversant in history. This past year, the Board of Trustees adopted a set of institutional values to help us navigate these deep historical conversations. They include Integrity, Invitation, Equity and Inclusion, Cultural Humility, Accessibility, and Learning. I encourage you to visit our website and read full descriptions of these values.

Of course, we couldn’t do any of this good work, especially in the trying environment of this past year, without you. Our members and donors are the backbone of this institution - your support allows the outreach, programming, school programs, preservation, and historical advocacy that is so important to our state and our world.

I dislike saying that your Vermont Historical Society is getting used to pandemic operations, but our approach this past year built upon many lessons learned from rather frenetic, early days. We created programs, activities, and operations that reached many Vermonters and Vermonters-at-heart in a measured and meaningful way. Some of these approaches will work just as well during a deep Vermont winter as during a pandemic, while others we will gleefully jettison as we come back together in person.

Warmest Regards,

Stephen Perkins, Executive Director

The best part of Vermont History Day was working with my partner on an interesting topic that kept us both engaged, and connecting our idea to the theme.

-Vermont History Day Student

Strategy Four Supporters in FY21:
We are deeply grateful to you, our many donors and members, who help preserve Vermont’s rich history, so each generation can learn from the legacy of our past. Your generous contributions provide the critical support needed to host public programs, educate students, present exhibits, publish unique stories, and preserve and share Vermont’s treasures.

The Legacy Circle is comprised of individuals who share a love of learning, a sense of wonder about Vermont and a commitment to ensuring our cultural and scientific heritage is passed to future generations. By supporting the Vermont Historical Society through an estate or life income gift, these individuals have recognized the timeless value of VHS’s work and the enduring place it has in Vermont history.

Connecting You to Vermont's Story Since 1838

The Vermont Historical Society is a nonprofit organization that operates the Vermont History Museum in Montpelier, the Vermont History Center in Barre, and the Leahy Library in Barre; educates Vermont's schoolchildren; provides support to Vermont's local historical societies; publishes books of historic interest; and offers programming throughout the state and beyond.

Chartered in 1838 by the Vermont Legislature, the Vermont Historical Society's purpose is to reach a broad audience through our outstanding collections, statewide outreach, and dynamic programming. We believe that an understanding of the past changes lives and builds better communities.

The utmost care has been taken in preparing this report. Occasionally, however, errors do occur. We apologize if this has happened and ask that you notify us with any inaccuracies or omissions.
