Green Mountain Basha of the China-Burma-India Veterans Association
Collection, 1941-1952, 1994-2004
MSA 435

Introduction

This collection consists of photographs and newsletters for the Green Mountain Basha of the China-Burma-India Veterans Association. The collection was presented to the Vermont Historical Society by Barbara P. Condict, a representative of the organization, in 2005. The collection consumes .25 linear feet of shelf space and is housed in one flip-top archival box.

Institutional History

The China-Burma-India Veterans Association (CBIVA) was a nonprofit veterans union for all personnel who served in or with the Armed Forces of the United States in China, Burma, or India during World War II. The National CBIVA was active from 1948 to 2005. The Green Mountain Basha represents the Vermont chapter of the association and appears to have been active from 1993 until 2005.

Scope and Content

This collection consists of photographs of members of the Green Mountain Basha of the China-Burma-India Veterans Association and several copies of Sound-off, the national newsletter of CBIVA, for the period 2003-2004.

The collection includes a photocopy of the original application for a charter for the Green Mountain Basha and one newsletter of the Vermont organization. Also part of this collection is a page containing black and white scans of photos of T. Chubb Condict from 1941 to 1952. These photos show the soldier in different places throughout the conflict in the China-India-Burma theatre and in the United States.

Also included are modern color photos of members of the Green Mountain Basha. Each photo includes the man’s name, either current location or original hometown, and many add some detail about his service. Lastly, more group and candid photos show these veterans at gatherings from 1994-2004.

Related Collections

The VHS museum collection includes a banner and pin from the Green Mountain Basha (acc. no. 2005.6).
