Dedication

The 1982 Our Echo is dedicated to the graduating Class of 1982 and all of those who made their four years as memorable as they were and will be. It is dedicated to the administrators, staff, and faculty who made Spaulding a home seven hours a day, five days a week, for four years. It is specially dedicated to Mr. David Seeley and Mr. Gabino Aja who will "graduate" this year as well after having dedicated themselves to making Spaulding High School a better place to grow and learn. Most of all, though, this yearbook is dedicated to the graduating seniors. Whether they continue their formal education or enter the world of work, whatever their calling, we are sure they will continue to learn and that America will forever be affected by the Class of 1982 and our echo will be heard for a long time to come. Good luck to all!

Theme

The theme of the 1982 Our Echo is one which is undeniably a part of any high school student. As a theme, Rock '82 is an attempt to recognize the all pervasiveness of music. From Journey to Rush to Foreigner, rock music was a common link tying us all together. That is why this yearbook will stand as a tribute to rock music 1982-style and meanwhile set down the memories of a year that listened to the beat of a different drummer.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Carrying on the Spaulding tradition is a heavy responsibility.

Our Echo documents the efforts of all people associated with the Spaulding community. In so doing it illustrates the varied activities of students and faculty alike.

Congratulations to the Echo staff and Mr. Perkins and Mr. Skillin for all the hours involved in the production of this volume. I hope the years bring even greater fulfillment to the members of the Class of 1982. May you add many accomplishments to those of our illustrious alumni.

"TURN ME LOOSE"

"LOVERBOY"

How many times throughout our years of education we have written that glorious 1982 into a space entitled "year of graduation". It seemed it was a date in the future that would always be just that, in the future. We have spent our high school years developing into the strong class that we are.

We are a class bound by friendships. At our first formal gathering, our Freshmen Reception, many of us were still strangers. Through classes, parties and sports we have lost the inhibitions we felt as we merged our eighth grade classes into one class; Spaulding's class of '82.

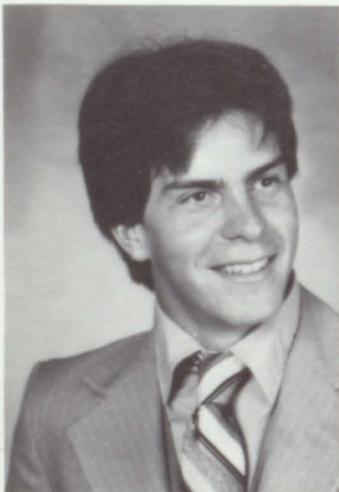

We are a class of leaders. Our class officers have held our class together through the activities they worked so hard to plan. As seniors, we planned activities for the entire school! We have pooled our likenesses and differences to achieve our successes.

The members of the Class of 1982, although we be separated by the distance of our individual dreams, will remain ever grateful to each other. We will reunite from time to time, to renew our friendships, rehash our memories and reward ourselves with laughter and pride, for we will always be members of the graduating class of '82.

"The Thinker"
Jon Winter

As we look back upon our momentous years at Spaulding, we see that many changes have occurred, some good and some not so good.

When we entered S.H.S. for the first time, as freshmen, we weren't too sure what to expect. We encountered new people and made new and lasting friendships. All the seniors talked about Slave Day and had us pretty worried. When it finally rolled around though, it wasn't as bad as it was made up to be. At the end of our freshman year, we learned that Spaulding was getting a new principal, Dr. Wilgoren. With this announcement came the usual gossip. The most traumatic rumor was that he was going to institute the dress code. Of course, it never came to pass.

During our Sophomore year, we saw the idea of not going to class during exam week instituted. This was a real lift to all.

As we progressed through our junior year, we saw even more changes take place. Many a member of the Class of '82 began driving to school, an important occurrence in the life of a teen-ager. We saw the budget, and many classes, get "slashed." A new superintendent came in at the end of the year, his name was Mr. Jamieson. Our Junior Prom brought the class together and was a great success.

As we started our senior year, we became aware of how much our school really meant to us. As freshmen, we had been afraid to sing "Glory To Spaulding" in front of our friends. As Seniors, though, those who didn't sing were looked down upon. The idea of school spirit was finally realized.

Also at this point in time, we realized that teachers weren't that bad after all. We became much more appreciative of them. For the first time, we were treated as young adults.

This was a year of many changes. The Class of 1982 was not afraid to do things a little differently (sometimes out of necessity). This was a year that possibly has set a few trends and certainly has bucked tradition.

One difference is that the Senior Review Board took on a whole new look. In the past it was simply a very small group of seniors in charge of overseeing disciplinary actions against classmates. This year it was transformed into a "student council" of the senior class — an opportunity for the officers to work with the class on a regular basis.

The Student Council adopted a new method of electing and appointing members in an effort to improve the efficiency of the organization.

The 1982 Our Echo totally revamped the layout of the yearbook, attempting in a single year to elevate the level of the book to that of the rest of the nation and necessitating a lot of innovative and hard work.

The Sentinel utilized the school's Graphics class, creating a more professional look to its pages.

But most of all, a nice change was the respect the Class of '82 gained from the faculty, administration, and community. We displayed to them that high school students can do many positive things. From the invitation to the public to view the Crystal Ball, to the Senior Play, to the Senior Formal, to Graduation, we were able to show the citizens of the Barre area that yes, high school students can be a positive force. Now it is up to us to continue this into the future — onward, upward, and outward.

Remember our first year in freshman hall?
When Slave Day arrived? Our first Christmas ball?
Then we became sophomores, we had passed our test,
We were all out to prove, '82 was the best!
When our junior year finally arrived,
It was hard to believe we had really survived.
Our senior year had come at last,
We found in the end, it went by too fast.
So, graduation was our happy ending,
Parting with good wishes that friends were sending.
What lies in the future is for us to decide,
With us will go memories of '82 and the Tide.

After three long years, the members of the Class of 1982 finally found out what it was like to be a senior. From what could be seen, most members of the class really enjoyed "ruling" the school.

By the time we become seniors we knew most of the teachers, and they in turn knew us. This means that most seniors were able to wander the halls without being pestered for a pass.

Many seniors had the opportunity to work in the office as an office aide. By doing this we got to know the administration quite well, which at times came in handy! With all of our friends working in the office it was possible to have them deliver little notes to us during class to break up the monotony.

After three long years, seniors developed a sixth sense on how to get out of study halls. We could go to the guidance office to "browse" through college catalogues. We could go to the Carriage Room and take two mods for lunch. There was everyone's favorite, getting an Echo pass from Perk or Skillin to go to Room 4 and talk.

"Hey man, where's the party?" That line was common to weekends as is Saturday. We cringed to hear the dreadful response . . . "there is NOTHING going on."

By the time we were seniors, we had outgrown babysitting and watching Love Boat on Saturday nights. By six o'clock on Saturday evenings, the telephone became an extension of the lower arm, being shed only after definite plans had been made. Yes, there was a rumor of a party and yes, we were going to check it out.

The excursion to the said party giver's house was always a nerve wracking experience. It was not until the car rounded the final corner (and we were always amazed when a certain Pinto made it that far) that the atmosphere in the usually overcrowded car became that of relief. A chorus of "oh, decents" penetrated the night air as the headlights reflected off the chrome bumpers, visible on the car lined streets.

With the reassuring weight of our favorite beverage swinging casually from our hands, we are ready for a typical weekend outing. Immediately upon walking into the house we scanned the kitchen and mentally rated the situation. A group of familiar faces were playing cards, a dedicated rock and roll fan was planted near the stereo and there were no underclassmen giggling near the bathroom door. Yes, it was a good party!

Wherever the party was, at someone's house or at one of our favorite outdoor locations, it was always fun just to get together. It was a chance to listen to tunes instead of teachers. It was not that we preferred one to the other of course, but the balance of the two made us more well rounded people.

We will remember the parties where the inevitable always happened: playing cards at Doug's, munching out at Brusetti's, being asked to "please leave" at Johnson's and bottoming out at the Pits. Yet more than the places we will remember the faces and the laughter that made our parties such great times.

Have you ever noticed who the true fans are at the Spaulding High School Varsity athletic events? The answer to this question can be summed up in one easy word — SENIORS! Through wind, rain, snow, and occasional sunshine the most loyal fans from Spaulding High School are always Seniors.

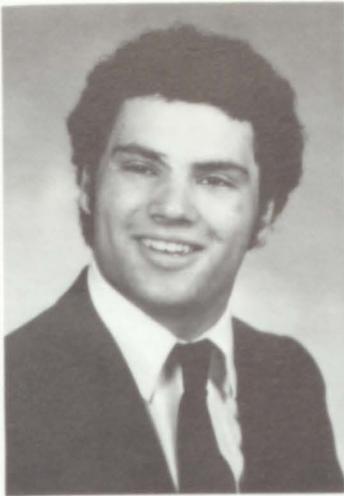

Why are the majority of the fans seniors? For many of us, the reality of being a senior is like a slap on the face. All of a sudden we realize that our time in high school is slowly dwindling and we can't get enough of the system. The senior class is the closest class in Spaulding High School. After being together for four years we find that everyone is a companion and we are willing to give our all out support in any way necessary. No matter what the contest, the rowdie seniors are always there to pull our teams through.

It is sad though; the seniors lead the school in spirit and the "Tide Comes Rolling In" and, shortly after, the seniors go rolling out.

"There's nothing worth the wear of winning, but laughter and the love of friends." Our minds should all be able to recall our freshman year at Spaulding — scared and lost, but our friends were there to help us through. As the quote brought out, the torture of being scared and lost was worthwhile because everybody was in the same position. Our Freshman Reception and Slave Day will always bring a smile to our faces — what better way to learn "Glory to Spaulding"?

Our sophomore year was the non-descriptive stage. No longer could the infamous term "freshmen" be applied to our class, yet we were still underclassmen. Through the efforts of friendships our class earned a name for ourselves by joining our excluded bodies together to raise money for the legendary Junior Prom. Together, under rays or rain, cars drove off shining from our car washes at the Tower.

Finally, our junior year brought with it our upperclassmanship and the respect that comes with the title. Who will ever forget our prom appropriately known as "The Best Of Times"? The occasion drew more people into friendships, some who had never exchanged words before, but now will never be forgotten.

Our senior year could be called the summary of the last three years. Our thoughts and actions reflect what has been touched upon in the past. Though there is the anticipation and excitement of our future to think of, "the laughter and love of friends" will never be forgotten.

Seniors, who are they? We are the people who led Spaulding in spirit. We worked hard to make our teams successful, while setting an example of good sportsmanship. Careful organization and planning made our clubs' activities worthwhile. We realized our last year at Spaulding was upon us. There were still things we hadn't done or hadn't had the chance to do. Senior year was the ultimate and final opportunity too, in some way, better our school.

Being a senior was more than just receiving privileges. It was learning that we had to earn them. It was being a master instead of a slave. It was working toward our soon to be received diplomas. With the title of senior came a lot of important responsibility. We set examples for the rest of the students to follow. By being responsible, we received the trust of the faculty and more freedom than we had ever known.

The rogues' gallery
Summer ECHO meeting at George's

Four years. Four long, hard years. Four long, hard years, filled with mistakes, filled with successes, filled with miseries and pleasures.

Yes, we have made it. We have passed through four long years, with a varying amount of success. But we have gone through more than just four years; we have passed through our major period of education, of maturity. But we haven't passed through alone; we have had the help of certain adults, whom we'll never be able to forget. They have helped us mature, to learn to cope with life, to succeed.

We have changed, hopefully for the better; but they too have changed. Some of these changes have been more noticeable than others: the modern haircuts of W.W. Perkins and J. Trombley; Martha Morris and her new baby; Fred Swan and his young painting career; the retirements from the coaching business by Joseph Maiola and Paul Poirier; and the retirements from teaching by Robert Burdett, Michael Anderson, and the presently retiring David Seeley and Gabino Aja. There are countless other memories that we will cherish throughout our lives. We would like to thank all the faculty for the part they have played in our lives, in shaping us, in sharing our difficulties and our successes, our sorrow and our happiness. Their lives are strongly etched into our winds of memories.

The Class of 1982 — just another class of hundreds of other classes. Right? Of course we like to think we're the greatest ever (or at least one of the best). Who are we to say we're any better than anyone else?!!

So what if we have been called one of the most involved classes the administration can remember? What's so wonderful about a class with lots of energy and enthusiasm? And who gives a whit about the best of times that were had at our Junior Prom?! It was simply the most organized and successful one in years. Our treasury has never been ravaged by the intense fear of not being able to meet expenses. Many of our sports teams performed admirably — and more importantly — like sportsmen. Our clubs and organizations have not only been very active, but have been eager and more than willing to be different, exciting and innovative.

Actually, when one takes a look at the facts, we've got much more than '84 (and definitely more than '83 and '85). We're rowdy, crazy, and original — in all the right ways. Let it be set down then, in this official annual of 1981-82, that the Senior Class of 1982 is proud to be this school's torchbearer: a reflection of the past's very best and an indication of the best to come. 82 — the original "great" class at Spaulding High School in Barre, Vermont.

Many times in the future, the class of 1982 will look back in this yearbook and say, "Remember when . . .?" Though these four years have flown by for most, we'll remember certain activities and gatherings for a long, long time.

Remember the Junior car wash at the Tower? So we all got wet and tired; we made a lot of money and the fun we had was worth it.

It seems that the A&W Snack Bar was not only the place to eat but also the place to work for many during the summer of 1981. No one can forget "Frank" or some of the special workers, like "Father Brian Persons," the most conservative senior anyone ever knew. How about all those 1 A.M. excursions to Bliss Pond?

And then there was our soccer team — they looked like an advertisement for Dr. Gibaud knee and ankle supports.

And, then, who can forget that fateful evening CRASH paid us all a friendly visit up at the Sand Pits, imprisoning us all until 2 A.M.

These are only a few of the memorable times we've shared at Spaulding High. It's always fun to look back, but the future holds just as much and more for us.

Decisions, decisions, decisions, so many questions that need to be answered in the next few months. So many deadlines that need to be met. But we survive, and climb to greater heights.

The hardest question of all is: "What do I do after high school?" There are so many choices! The world is open to us. Whatever we want, we can go out and get it. It's hard not to worry about making the right decision on the first try. It usually can't be done that way. As time goes by, we grow intellectually and emotionally. As we grow, we change. We will always have the chance to change our minds and be what we want to be.

Some of us will go out and get a job after graduation; and some of us will further our education by going to college. Either choice is good, depending on what is right for the individual.

Leaving high school, regardless in what direction we turn, is a very big step. We're on our own then, with no one to answer to. Our choices are our own, and we must live with them. Our future is very important, and we should make each decision with care. The world is waiting for us.

The guidance office is the only office at S.H.S. that seniors enjoy spending time in. After 3 years of experience, we seniors at Spaulding came to appreciate the multiple uses of the guidance office.

Seniors know that the guidance office has served more passes than McDonalds' has hamburgers. We could rest assured that if there was a Biology assignment we hadn't done, or an exam we hadn't studied for, we could escape failure by feigning interest in a college, career, or armed forces representative. If all else failed, a pass to hear more about U.V.M was as good as a note from mother.

Once we'd escaped British Lit., we of course weren't foolish enough to make our life decisions. We spent our time at that round table in more productive pursuits — discussing social events and browsing through college catalogs, remarking on the coed's looks.

What we realized, was that the informality of the guidance office, and the patience of our counselors and Mrs. Robinson, helped ease the pressure of one of the most hectic years of our lives.

"Isn't school fun?"

A student's senior year means a lot of things to a lot of people. Often it's a time to become involved — and there is a great temptation to become too involved. This was the plight Joe Senior was in.

Somehow Joe had to be at four meetings at 2:15. The Student Council had a meeting concerning the rescheduling of the Christmas Ball for the second week in August. The Ski Club was practicing the sacred Snow Ritual of the Algonquins, hoping for snow for the coming weekend. Meanwhile the Spanish Club was making final preparations for their trip to Caracas, Venezuela. Finally, somewhere in there, Joe also had to attend a Close-Up meeting about their great shoelace sale extravaganza.

Joe finally got home at four o'clock and wolfed down a quick supper (he has H lunch). He then desperately needed to find a book to read for his book report due the next day. After digging around in his little sister's closet he found one and quickly skimmed it.

Then at 7 PM, Joe had both a Varsity "S" and FBLA meeting. Getting back home at 8:30, he scrawled out a satisfactory book report that was a discussion of the theme of loyalty in Charles Schultz's "He's Your Dog, Charlie Brown". After five hundred words of this were set down, Joe had to conjugate the intransitive verbs in the conditional and figure out how many great-great grandchildren of two diabetic parents would be diabetic. At eleven o'clock, Joe realized he had a Calculus test coming up, so he opened up his text and began studying, falling asleep across page 105.

Such pressures caused Joe to regularly sleep during Chemistry and angrily beat upon his typewriter in typing class. Eventually he decided to ease up and after an intense rehabilitation, returned to normal.

Wasn't it fun being a Senior?

Being Seniors, we all have to go through similar rituals, one of which is having our senior pictures taken. "What should I wear? . . . Is my hair all right? . . . How do I look?"

Smile Pretty! Click! Click! And it's all over . . . for awhile! Now comes the waiting. Waiting for proofs, and price lists. When finally we receive them, we are let down. We expected beautiful pictures of soft colors and highlights. Instead we get dark, unretouched proofs. "They're terrible!" "My nose sticks out!" Or in some rare cases, "Which one should I choose? I like them all!"

Somehow, somehow, and for some reason, we buy the pictures. A lot of thought and decision goes into who "will" receive one and who "won't", and also what to write on the backs. Of course, there are pictures in the yearbook, but the special gift of a picture with a personal note on the back is a whole separate memory to treasure.

After all of our pictures are distributed, we can sit back and relax, feeling like we've done our part. Each of us has ordered just enough for friends and relatives, and only two pictures had the same thing written on the back. Usually, after relaxing for a day or two, someone, somewhere, slaps his head, remembering who it was that he had forgotten to give a picture to, and there are no more left!

Overall though, giving and receiving photos was a good show of friendship. It was also quite fun, despite all the troubles and hassles. It may not seem like such a big deal now, but in the future, looking back, we will all realize what a great gift a memory is.

Robin Patterson

After twenty-nine years at Spaulding High School and thirty-three years of teaching, a member of our faculty who has been a great friend, teacher, and positive influence in innumerable students' lives has decided to retire.

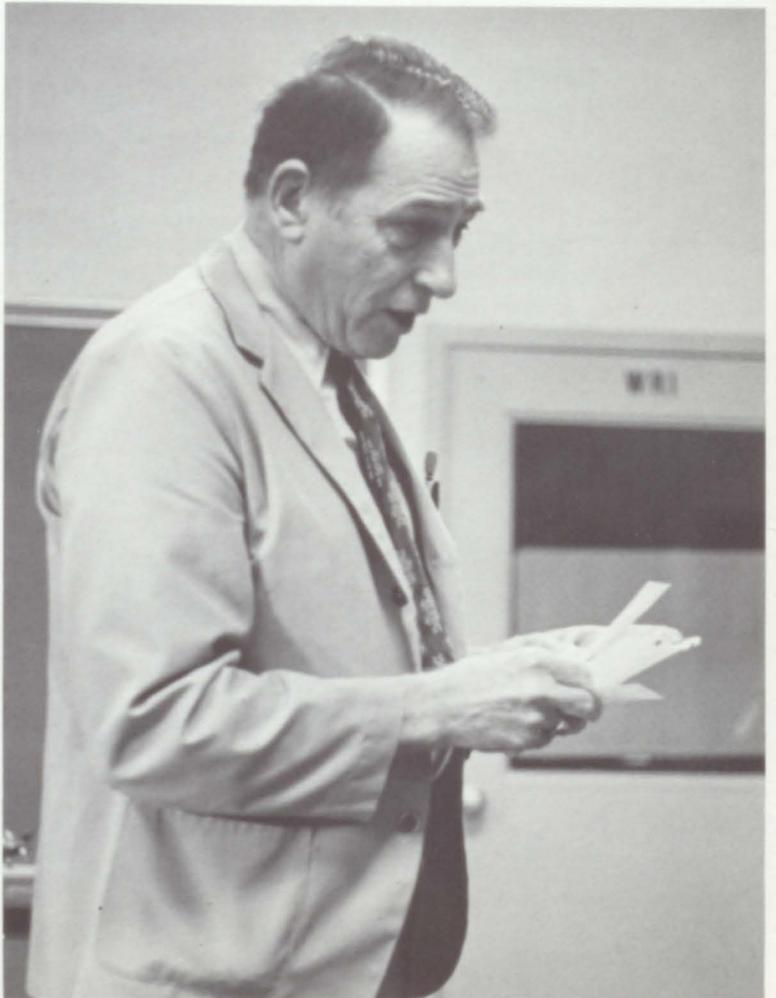

After graduating from college, Mr. David Seeley spent his first year teaching at Hardwick. The following year he returned to college and earned his Master's degree. Mr. Seeley then taught Biology at Middlebury College for three years.

In 1953 he came to Barre and taught Math here at Spaulding. The next year he became a Biology instructor and has continued to teach the subject through this year at the Honors, College, and Advanced levels.

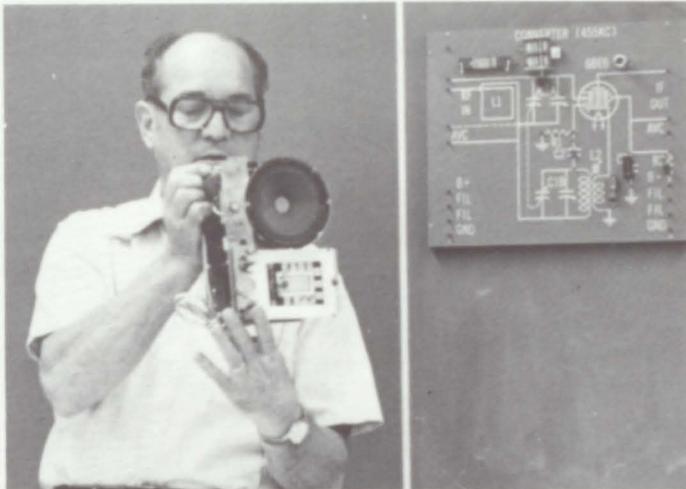

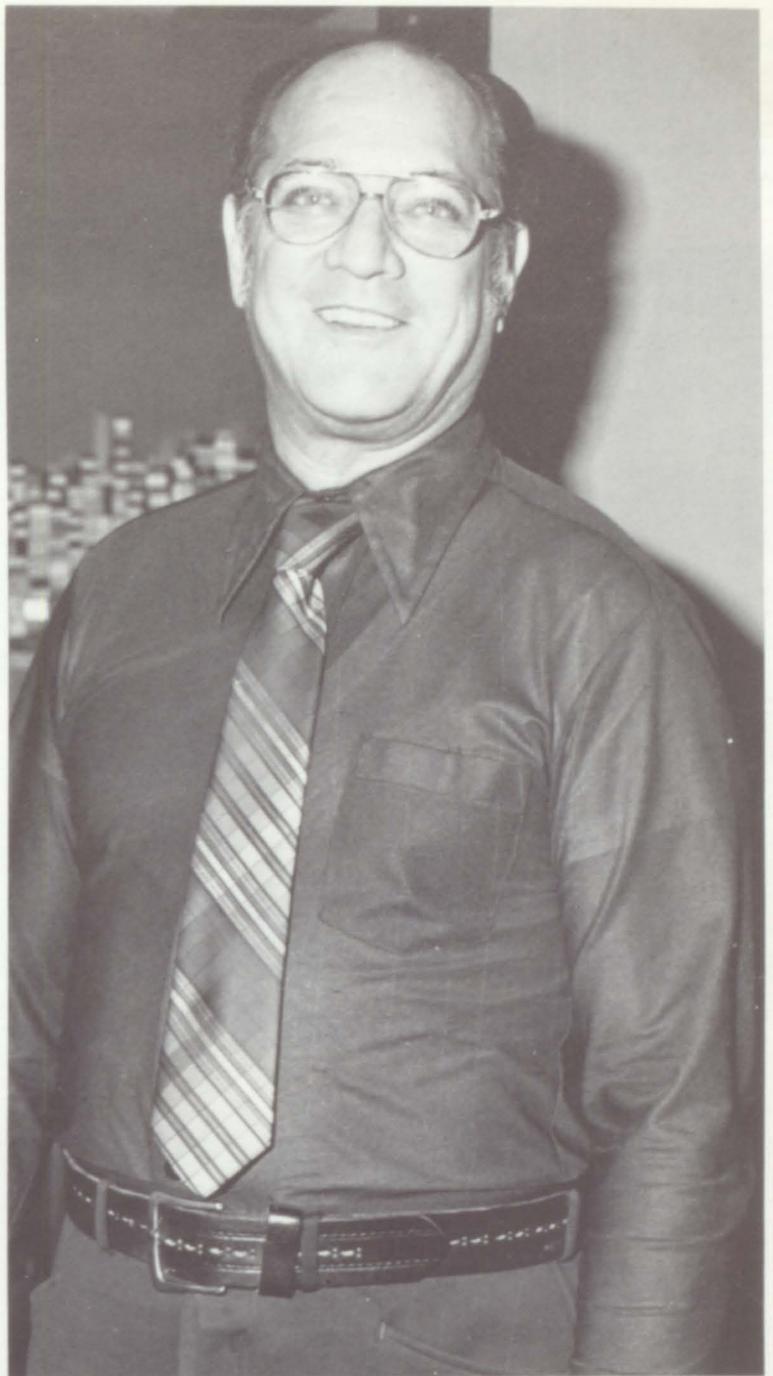

After Mr. Seeley leaves Spaulding, he plans to move out of Barre and possibly spend some time with his brothers, one who lives in California and the other who lives in Florida.

Above and beyond his teaching, Mr. Seeley was also active in other areas as well. He served as Athletic Director in the early 1960's and contributed to his school as a class advisor many times.

Mr. Seeley cites that the personal satisfaction of helping students to succeed as the primary reason for his having taught at SHS for twenty-nine years. This opportunity to be a part in a student's personal growth is why Mr. Seeley opted to remain as a teacher at the high school level. Mr. Seeley's influence has left a mark on Spaulding High and its students that will not soon diminish. But more important than his having taught students about the science of Biology, he has taught his pupils about life and growth itself. His equitable discipline planted the seeds of maturity that has allowed his students to continue on in life better prepared for having known him. Our Echo, the Class of 1982, and the entire Spaulding community most heartily and sincerely wish Mr. David Seeley the very best, and hope that he may now have the chance to derive from life just a fraction of what he has contributed to it.

Shocking!

Mr. Gabino Aja has been in the Spaulding School system since 1957. During this time he has taught electronics. Not many people at Spaulding realize exactly how much Mr. Aja has done for Spaulding. Besides teaching, Benny has kept the P.A. system, upon which we hear the morning announcements, in fine working condition. He is responsible for all of the sound equipment the school owns. Mr. Aja is the man responsible for the sound systems at the numerous assemblies held throughout the year as well as graduation.

For all of his hard work and dedication, we are proud to dedicate the 1982 Our Echo to Mr. Benny Aja, a man who will be missed greatly at Spaulding High School.

This years varsity field hockey season was one of which Spaulding can be proud. It was a season filled with firsts. The team defeated Stowe, one of the league's powerhouses, for the first time in SHS history. They also defeated Harwood Union, handing the Highlanders their first regular season loss in four years. The Tide capped off their season of firsts by becoming the first Spaulding field hockey team to ever reach the semi-finals in division I. They reached the semi's by defeating top seeded Middlebury, who was said to be one of the finest teams Vermont has ever produced. The team ended with a fine 10-4-3 record.

The team found itself with a new home field in 1981. All of the home games were played at the Barre Town Recreation Area. The girls adapted well to the new field, upon which they baffled all their opponents, and finished undefeated at home.

One member of the team, Leslie Day, was named to the All-Star team for her outstanding work on the offensive line. Three other members were listed as honorable mentions; Steph Mulhern at her fullback position, Melissa Sherman at halfback, and Micky Lauzon in goal.

The J.V. field hockey squad had another great year. They ended their fine season with a bang by defeating Stowe, one of the toughest teams in the league. The J.V.'s final record was an excellent 11-0-1, undefeated!

The team was made up of mostly sophomores. Three freshmen played on the squad, learned a lot and are sure to be tough next year. The key to the team's success was simple. All the team members got along really well and they were all determined to win, which they did.

Many thanks to Coach Cheryl Anderson. She was great to work with and taught our team a lot. To Tilman and the J.V.: Good luck next year!

"Hey Good Lookin' "

With tryouts back in the spring, the Varsity cheerleaders had a lot of time to prepare for the new fall season. Practices began a week before school reopened. The sessions were long and hard but our new squad was enthusiastic about starting the season off well. We worked hard composing new cheers, reviewing sidelines and dreaming up new and daring mounts.

As the season progressed, we learned each other's habits, talents and weaknesses. Many long term friendships were made. Everything we accomplished was done with group effort. Even our poster making brought us closer together, and many talents were brought out as we let our imaginations run wild.

One of our most fun times was when we performed in front of the entire school at the very successful Homecoming Pep Rally. We really caught the attention and spirit of many students with our cheer, "We're the Cheerleaders".

We cheerleaders would like to give our thanks to the spectators who participated and showed spirit, and also supported our teams to let them know that the fans were behind them.

Hut 1 . . . Hut 2 . . . and the Crimson Tide was off! Although the Spaulding football team fell on hard times during the '81 season, their motivation was always as intense as at the moment of the first pass off.

The Tide fielded a team that was small in number; only 28 members survived the campaign. Six of these Tidesmen were sophomores who played mainly on the J.V. squad. The team was also small in size. Beneath the massive padding only seven players weighed more than 180 pounds or more. Another limiting factor for the '81 Varsity was its lack of experience. Only four seniors returned with any kind of playing time from last year.

On the field, Spaulding played a tough game of football that lacked only two major factors: offense and intensity. The defense was nothing less than ferocious, but the offense stumbled and scored only two touchdowns for the year. Yet even they, at times, pulled off some brilliant moves.

Senior line backer Fran Patno, a devoted Tidesman, was named to the Division I All Star team.

It was a building year for the Tide. With a host of the sophomores and juniors returning next year, Spaulding football looks bright and positive for the future. The class of 1982 will graduate Tidesmen Fran Patno, Mark McKinstry, Tom Gray, Brian Wilkins, Greg Hodge, Kent Barcomb, Matt Rackliff, Bob LaRochelle, Robert Beaudoin, Dan McAuley and Darrell Loverin.

The 1981 season marked the end of head coach Maiola's coaching career. Coach Maiola retired after 19 years as the dedicated Spaulding mentor.

It was a year of highs and lows for the Spaulding J.V. football team. By mid-season the team was 1 and 3. This was mainly due to the lack of practice time which resulted from the limited coaching staff this year. However, the next four games showed that the team had gelled nicely into a complete unit. Both offense and defense made fine showings in these final contests, which all ended in blowouts in favor of the Tide. The defense allowed only six points during the second half of the year, and the J.V.'s capped off their 5-3 season with an 18-0 shutout over Montpelier.

Fine coaching was provided by J.V. head coach Mike Law and the assistant coach Charles Lilly. The team hopes to bring both enthusiasm and victory to the Varsity football next year.

'81 was an exciting year for Spaulding freshman football. With the help of Coach "Rap" and Coach Choidi, the team members learned the game of football, worked hard together, and by the end of the season they really looked like a team. The squad was small in number but this proved to be advantageous. All the members had plenty of playing time and consistently put forth their best effort with enthusiasm. The team turned in a commendable 4-2 record. All the members are looking forward to playing for the Crimson Ripple in '82.

OO-AY-CHEV-ALIER! Yes, that was the soccer team getting psyched. And they had a reason to be psyched. The 1981 Varsity soccer team claimed an impressive 12-4 record this year. Reaching the semifinals in the Division I competition, they went as far as any Spaulding soccer team has gone in the past. The Tide was defeated 3-0 by Champlain Valley Union in the semi-final game.

The Tide was effective as a team and played well together. They put a lot of effort into developing a short passing game. Throughout the season the offense and defense shined through. The offense scored 42 goals and the defense allowed only 21 points to be made. They had 6 shut-outs for the season.

Three players were named to the Division V All Star team: Patrick (P.D.) Kelty, Geoff Haskell and Christian Parent. Given honorable mention were Paul Biggs, John Perreault, Darrell Gauthier, Dan Martin, Bruce Axten, Randy Tucker, John Quinlan and Rick Quinlan.

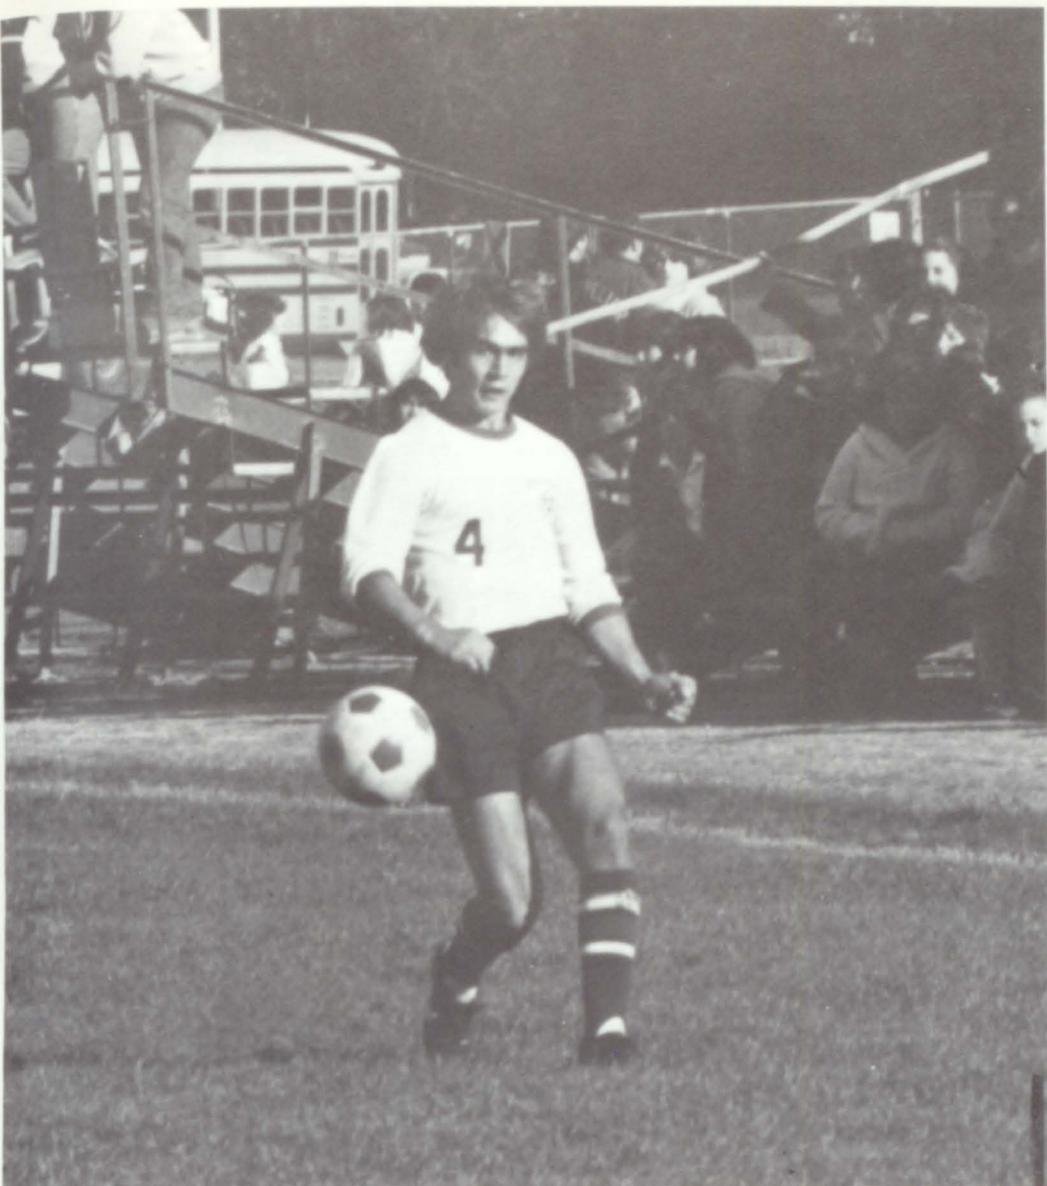

The Tide lost seventeen senior kickers to the graduating class: Bruce Axten, Pete Baldor, Paul Biggs, Jay Frattini, Darrell Gauthier, Geoff Haskell, P.D. The J.V. soccer team had a spectacular '81 season! They ended their season with an unblemished 11-0 record.

The J.V.'s were relocated this year along with the field hockey teams, and played all of their home games at the Barre Town Recreation Field. Despite not being at school, the team still drew a good crowd of fans.

The team was coached this year by former Spaulding soccer standouts Jay Morris and Andy Gingras. Both coaches did a lot of work with the players and their fine worked payed off. With many of the players moving up to the varsity squad in '82, Spaulding looks forward to another outstanding soccer season next year.

Our 1981 Homecoming started off with a spirited Pep Rally on Friday morning, October 16. The gym was filled with psyched students, dressed in red and blue, ready to cheer on their teams. Each team's captains spoke briefly, after which Mr. Atkinson delivered a blessing to the athletes. A lot of spirit was generated as the cheerleaders led a victory cheer. Homecoming '81 was officially underway!

On Friday afternoon the determined soccer team met with Oxbow for an exciting but disappointing game. The Varsity team lost to Oxbow but their efforts were not overlooked.

The late afternoon drizzle did not dampen the spirit of the Spaulding fans, as they cheered and yelled around the toastie bonfire that evening. Michelle Couture was crowned our smiling, 1981 Homecoming Queen, with her court including Lynn Gregoire, Kim Jacobs and Melissa Sherman. Then the annual Homecoming Parade made its way down Main Street. Various clubs had worked hard making floats with the hope of the winning the first Float Contest in Spaulding's glorious history. The creativity shown in the individual floats added a special touch to the parade. A tremendous amount of school spirit was demonstrated. The Interact Club, with a small but quaint haunted house on wheels, was the deserving winner. They received the prize money of 25 dollars.

The following morning the field hockey team hit the field, ready to battle Oxbow. Their spirit and determination, not to mention hard work, payed off as they gained a sweeping victory over their opponents.

That afternoon the football team played a tough game against Essex. The supportive fans shared the team's disappointment as they suffered the loss.

Even though we weren't totally successful on the athletic field, Homecoming was still a great success. For those who participated, it was a lot of fun and truly a weekend to remember.

Femininity was forgotten on November 15 when the junior and senior girls clashed at the annual Powder Puff game. The teams were psyched and ready to go after weeks of practicing. The game began at one o'clock, following rowdie calsthenic sessions at both ends of the field.

The seniors, with the advantage of a year's experience, burned the junior defense in the second play of the game and scored their first touchdown. The juniors seemed lost for the entire first half. The seniors prevailed, scoring two more touchdowns by the close of the half.

With renewed enthusiasm and a better knack for the game, the juniors made an impressive comeback in the second half. 98 . . . CHOM . . . FM was the senior's innovative call for the pass off. The junior defense came alive and sent the seniors crawling back for a 15 yard loss. The juniors then went on to score their first touchdown.

The seniors maintained the lead by concentrating on a strong defense to stop the junior's speedy runners. The juniors scored again, early in the fourth quarter. The tightening of the gap added intensity and excitement to the game. The final score, seniors with eighteen points to the juniors twelve, left the mighty seniors ecstatic and satisfied, and the juniors proud and more experienced.

The game was really fun for all. As in the past, there were no hard feelings between the two classes. Thanks to the coaches and tremendous team efforts, Powder Puff '81 goes down into Spaulding history as another great game of female football.

Varsity "S" Club was started in 1970. It's main purpose is to assist various sports where help is needed, and to bring together all the athletes. In order for a student of Spaulding to become a member of this club a varsity letter must be earned in one or more sports.

There were many ways this club raised money in the '81-'82 school year. We had bar-b-ques, a wood donation, the annual Christmas tree sale, and Fun Night. We also sponsored the Winter Carnival. Our special theme was "Saturday morning cartoons".

The Varsity "S" Club helped pay for team transportation to such events as the rifle team's trip to Colorado, District and State Competition for the track team, and the hockey team's Christmas tournament in Waterville, Maine.

This year's advisors for the club included: Mr. Maiola, Mr. Delphia and Mr. Atkins. The club's officers were: Darrell Gauthier, President; Geoff Haskell, Vice-President; Mona Moran, Treasurer; Micky Lauzon, Secretary.

At the end of the year the club payed tribute to the senior athletes in the form of a banquet. The Varsity "S" Club was designed to promote athletics at Spaulding and we had another successful year doing just that.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS BOOSTER CLUB

Renee Rouleau plans strategy

"... And if I cannot win, let me be brace in the attempt ..." We have stood beside many Special Olympians as they repeated this oath and we have witnessed their bravery.

The Special Olympics Booster Club has become one of the most active clubs in Spaulding during the past year. We held our first fundraiser during the summer Heritage Festival. Clad in our "I'm an S.O.B. ask me why" T-shirts, we all took turns selling balloons. With a smile and a reply of, "Because I'm a Special Olympics booster," we made enough money to get the club's year off to a good start.

The fall was a busy time for us as we trained for the Soccer Tournament OP mods then rushed up to our corner in a distant hall to work on our Homecoming float.

Our next task was to ready the Spaulding Olympians for the Polyhockey Tournament. Amid the training we also undertook our biggest fund raiser yet, a Hoop Shoot contest. Members of the club served as volunteers, and participated in the contest. We helped the winter athletes with skiing and basketball, and sold popcorn and soda at the girl's basketball games.

In the spring we helped train for the annual track and field meet. We also sponsored a Fun Night for handicapped people in the area in which they competed in various stunts.

We feel we aided Special Olympics in a positive way and our proud of the results of our efforts.

French Club

This year's French Club was very successful thanks to our officers, Jodi Corning (treasurer), Pam Roy (secretary), Michelle Routheir (vice president), and Renee Shutak (president).

Looking back on this year's French Club we see many good memories. We had a bottle drive, bake sales, candy sales, and a car wash. Each month we did an activity together like roller skating, parties, caroling, skiing, and a trip to Quebec.

Yes, we had a fantastic club this year and it's mostly due to our members. Without them, there wouldn't have been a French Club.

“... More Coke! ... Hey, can we have some more coffee? ... What about some sandwiches and cookies? ...” Such demands were heard in the Barre Town auditorium as young and old alike square danced to the lively calling of Mr. Monty. Who were the ones yelling? Why, the Spanish Club of course. And what were they doing at the square dance but selling refreshments. The Club was successful at it and a bit closer to earning enough money to take the field trip it was looking forward to.

Another fund raiser we held was the sale of hats. Spanish Club boosted school spirit by selling baseball hats, with SPAULDING TIDE in red letters, and also earned more money.

Some culture was injected into the school by the club's presentation of Juan de la Sierra, a visiting Spanish guitarist. Parents and students listened with quiet attention as de la Sierra serenaded them, sang lullabies and played the guitar with professional skill never heard at Spaulding before.

Spanish club has not only spread a little Spanish around the school but also showed it was capable of anything it put its mind to. What a club!

INTERACT

Monday morning — 7:30 bulletin. Kim Gale announced, "There will be an Interact meeting tonight at 7:00 in room 116. All members please attend." The meeting began with the banging of a key chain against the Interact Bell. Donna LaGue screamed, "This is your last warning sophmores. If you talk out one more time you'll be fined." After the tedious hour of collecting the debatable dues we started the meeting. First question, "Who wants to munch out at the Rotary luncheon?" Anxious hands flew up from those hoping to miss KLMN mods. Second question, "What fund raising activity will no one attend this week?" Final question, "Is the meeting over yet?"

Aside from what seemed totally chaotic, our meetings were very successful this year due to the cooperativeness of all the members. Aside from helping the community in any way we could, we were able to triple the membership and the treasury. We continued to support R. Shanthi in India, and we had a great time building the winning float for Homecoming. We are proud to be a prominent club at SHS. Good luck future officers of Interact.

This is our future?

Someday, I'll own all this

Members of the Future Business Leaders of America got off to a slow start, but it didn't take long to get into full gear. The departure of Mr. David St. Cyr was a great loss, but Mrs. Patricia Gray has done a great job replacing him.

In November, the FBLA held their annual Arts and Crafts Festival which proved to be a success. Other fundraisers included a concession stand at concerts and at home soccer games, helping at the Canadian Club Christmas party, and a Candy-gram sale.

Besides fundraisers, the club also contributed to the community with social activities. These activities included helping at our school's open house, ushering at the Up With People concert, and the preparation and distribution of Thanksgiving food baskets to needy families in the community.

Some of the 28 members attended the Spring State Conference at Smuggler's Notch. Competitive tests were taken at this conference to show abilities in such fields as shorthand, accounting, typing, and data processing. Also, workshops were held to improve skills in such areas as chapter management and public relations. Other conferences were held throughout the year in Montpelier.

The Future Business Leaders of America has become a popular and fulfilling club throughout the community as well as the state.

Wednesday evenings at 7:00 p.m. was the meeting time of one of Spaulding's finest clubs. The Key Club, sponsored by the Barre Kiwanis, was an organization for young men interested in serving Spaulding and the community.

The members of the 1982 Key Club upheld the chapter's grand tradition, and infamous reputation. Under the leadership of President Randy Tucker, assisted by Vice-President Terry Greenwood, the club ran like clockwork and was called upon to aid such organizations as the Aldrich Library, the Barre Jaycees, and the Spaulding Homecoming — where, incidentally, the Key Club's float was the envy of the parade.

The Club's treasury was in fine shape thanks to members like Bob Bisson, who worked hard on bottle drives and basketball concessions. A special "thank you" went to Rick Quinlan who singularly fined so many members that a trip to the New England convention was assured.

Jay Frattini did a great job as treasurer, and kept a careful eye on all the funds. Bob Stevens, the substitute recorder, kept a watchful eye on Mr. Frattini.

The young men of the 1982 Key Club served as examples to the school. Though the Club lost many of its members to graduation, Mr. Porter will be there to advise next year's crew and the tradition will surely march on.

"These are for water only!"

The Spaulding DECA Club had 51 members this year. DECA is a club linked with a two year course in marketing and distribution.

This year, 18 members of our chapter attended the North Atlantic Regional Conference. It was held in Washington, D.C. For all those who made the "Journey" on the Spaulding bus, the lyrics of "Physical" and "Turn Me Loose" will never be forgotten, along with the spontaneous SHS pep rally at Burger King.

During the year, many things happened to make our club unique. We discovered a new talent in "Lucille Brassard's daughter", Renee. Her DECA song was indeed an inspiration. Bonnie Brochu kept the senior class laughing with her jokes and the AB class kept Mr. Moore on his toes. Bert Barnet never seemed to stop smiling and the juniors never seemed to stop complaining. Steve Somerville and Curtis Lyford made an all-out effort to raise money and our bottle drive was a "smashing" success.

Over all, it was a great year and one that will be hard to forget.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Changes! This one word best describes the means and motives for accomplishment of this year's Student Council. Many of the major changes proved successful and beneficial to the student body. A voting method was established to determine representatives from each class. This brought together a very motivated group of students. The Homecoming Parade was enlarged and included floats built by various clubs. This made the weekend's activities much more recognized. The Constitution of the Student Council also underwent changes in 1982. A new tradition was begun, a January formal aptly called the Crystal Ball.

We thank our advisor, Mr. Walton, for the hard work he put into the Council. The officers and members hope that these changes made for a stronger Student Council and student body, and will continue to do so in the future.

The inactive Glee Club of last year has come on its feet under the direction of Mrs. Julia LeBlanc. It was difficult having sectionals rather than a full chorus, but we are proud to have had so much interest and participation in Winooski Valley, All State, and All New England. The quartet of Judy Houle, Loriann Bowles, John Pelkey, and Chris Roberts was awarded first division in the All New England auditions, with a score of 776. This was the first year in many that the chorus participated in the All New England Festival.

The Winter Carnival was a great success for us this year, due to the fact that everyone worked together. All members showed their full cooperation and support. The numerous bake sales and candy sales made our exchange concert a reality.

CRYSTAL BALL

On a cold yet starry night, January 9, 1982, the Crystal Ball was held at the Barre Auditorium. The student council and other student volunteers worked all day to give the auditorium a festive look. Forgotten Christmas trees were gathered up, and stars, glitters and lights helped add to the wintertime theme. Renegade provided the music, beginning at 8:30 and playing until 11:30, taking few breaks in between. The theme song for the ball was "Wintertime" by Steve Miller Band. Everyone seemed to have a great time. The dance floor was filled and even the teachers got into the swing of things. The night went very well. There were no disturbances and everyone showed their best behavior.

The Smimoffers . . . National Libyan Hit Squad . . . Mona's Mob . . . Where else would one find such a diversity of "athletes" than at the annual Broom Hockey Tournament? The tournament was one of many activities that contributed to the success of this year's Winter Carnival. Sponsored by the Varsity "S" Club, the weeklong spectacular ignited a fire of excitement during the January cold spell.

The week was filled with meets, matches and games. Boys basketball lost a close contest to U-32 as did the girls team to CVU. Saturday, the wrestlers grappled their way to a successful victory over Harwood and the hockey team claimed an impressive win over North Country.

In keeping with the "Saturday morning cartoons" theme, VICA's Bugs Bunny snow sculpture took first place in the contest.

Broom hockey was the final event of the carnival. Checking, falling, slipping all day Sunday, the teams were eliminated one by one. Mona's Mob was last to leave the ice, taking first prize with them.

The week generated a lot of student involvement, bringing 300 people to the broom hockey games, thus proving its purpose well.

The Pre-Engineering Graphics VICA Club for the '81-'82 school year consisted of two sections, the two different years in Pre-Engineering Graphics I and II. Our club revolved around the class which prepared each of us for many different future careers. Some of us would become civil engineers, surveyors, draftsmen or architects. The list is endless.

We held our meetings during class time. The seniors went on field trips to different industries to get a better view of our future career worlds. We elected and installed our officers and formed many committees. We made plans to give two scholarships to seniors enrolled in vocational courses. We donated to the National Epilepsy Association during National Epilepsy Week. We also planned to give to the Jerry Lewis Fund for M.S.

In April was our State Skill Olympics where we competed for awards in our vocational specialty or for a leadership award. The goal was to be more successful than in the past so to send many of our students to Kentucky for the National Skill Olympics. The 1981-82 school year was one of the best for the VICA Club and all of its members.

Yearbook Staff

This is the yearbook staff's annual epitaph to a rewarding year of "inconceivable agony."

It is very difficult to imagine the complexities and downright pains that a yearbook produces. Out of lots of blank sheets of paper, empty typewriters and cameras, and neat Room 4, a yearbook was expected to magically appear. It was not quite that easy.

The only thing we had going for us were ideas that our individual creativity might have produced. We had no experience in layout, copy editing, and the like. Therefore we stumbled forward, creating a book such as this through lots of hard work, thinking, and improvisation.

We also were forced to take it upon ourselves to produce a profitable yearbook that would be innovative as to design and theme. In other words we had to run it in the black and bring it up to par with the rest of the nation.

We made mistakes for sure — but we'd like to think we did some really good things as well. Through thick and thin, deadlines and Party Hardy Marty, layouts and layoffs, we feel this yearbook will stand for itself as a memorial to the one and only year of 1982 — its fun, failures, foolishness, and great times that will last in our memories for eternity. We're glad to have been able to be a part of this, and hope the 1982 Our Echo does — and will — bring back some very pleasant memories. Good luck from all of us who worked on the 1982 Our Echo!

"I'm not crazy, I'm a Drama member." You may have seen these pins on students all over the school, showing how far-reaching the Drama Club has become.

Drama was very active this year. In October, members of the cast of A Midsummer Night's Dream went to a Shakespeare festival at Randolph Union High School. In November, we were on the road again, this time to Gilford, New Hampshire to see Gilford High School's production of the show. Then in December, it was time to do the show ourselves. Though putting on a fall show was nothing new, having a matinee and inviting other schools was very original. Although the audiences were small all three nights of the performance, everyone seemed to enjoy the show. We were probably the ones who enjoyed the show the most! Many of us became very close and will always be good friends.

The spring musical, You're A Good Man Charlie Brown was performed on April 1, 2, 3. Although there was an extremely small cast, they did a wonderful job.

After the musical was the senior play, which the seniors enjoyed doing tremendously.

There were many people to be thanked for helping make the year successful for the Drama Club. Most importantly, Ms. Sinclair. She was our director, set designer, treasurer, advisor, and our toughest critic. We want her to know that she is a needed and appreciated part of the Drama Club.

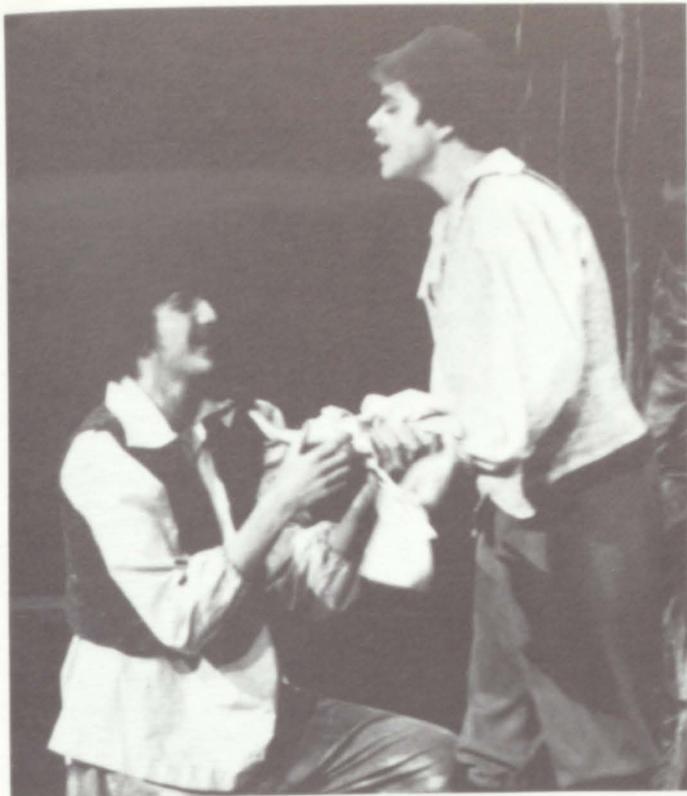

There was no way to name everyone that helped out, but to be very general, thanks went to the casts and crews of all the plays. The other officers deserving of recognition were: Vice President Ken Duke, and Secretary Kim Gale.

"Does anyone want to buy a Sentinel?" repeated a dedicated salesperson one Friday each month. The sales and reading of the Sentinel were as close as some people ever came to it. But to the Sentinel staff, the paper was a very important part of the school. Hidden in room 4, we were the genesis of the newspaper. We put extra effort into the Sentinel this year to make it a student related paper, while reporting the current events.

There was something for everyone who supported the Sentinel. Gary Karnedy shared his sense of humor, Chris Bowen's "Omnia Defensor" cartoon never ceased to amaze its followers, and John Jamele kept a foot in the door to the political world. Chris Roy kept tabs on the Drama Club, a group he knew well, and Bruce Talmadge brought various student's cars into the spotlight. There were also many dedicated reporters who made the paper an accurate record of life at, and concerning Spaulding.

The interest in the Sentinel is being revived. Thanks to our advisor, Mr. Comley, and the Graphic Occupations class, we had the chance to do our part in continuing Spaulding's long lived publication, the Sentinel.

"Was that a B# or a Bb."

As the 1981-82 school year unfolded, the Spaulding Band provided musical support and encouragement to boost the morale of students as well as the teams. Playing at home football games, weather permitting, the band was there from the Star Spangled Banner to the last play of the game, tooting and thumping away. Every morning the band was outside in unseasonable weather practicing and rehearsing for a half-time football show that was very well done. On November 11, the band marched in the Veterans Day Parade, entertaining both adults and children. During the fall pep rally, the band's enthusiasm shook the rafters.

The band once again proved itself to be an asset to Spaulding. One day in particular is vividly remembered because of the great pride we band members felt. The band gave a Christmas concert for the general public, which was very successful. That is how the band is remembered; as an energetic group of high school students who were ready and willing to work for the school as well as themselves. Like when the band played at home basketball games, spreading their harmonious spirit to the fans and varsity team.

Well, there we were. We had a lot of fun while working for the benefit of Spaulding and ourselves.

"O.K. get a ball and dribble." And we dribbled and passed, jumped and shot until we got it right. The '81-'82 basketball season was fun and showed good results for the varsity girls. We worked hard in practice but never lost sight of the lighter side of the game . . . T.W.'s rebounding sound effects, Micky's saves that stopped at nothing, not even tables. Soup's rendition of the latest chart buster and Lisa's layered sweatsuits. And Kim, "Hit the who?", Kay and Steph begging the Dianes to run the play, and Anna, suggesting plays of her own.

Our season was going strong at 11-6 with 3 games left to play. We never lost hope in a game and Mr. Atkins never lost hope in us. We appreciated Mr. Atkin's work with us and Beth Couture's dedication to helping in any way, or position. Good luck to next season's team.

Our record was 9-10 with one game left to play. Our season wasn't as successful as we would have liked, but all of the team members enjoyed learning the fundamentals of basketball.

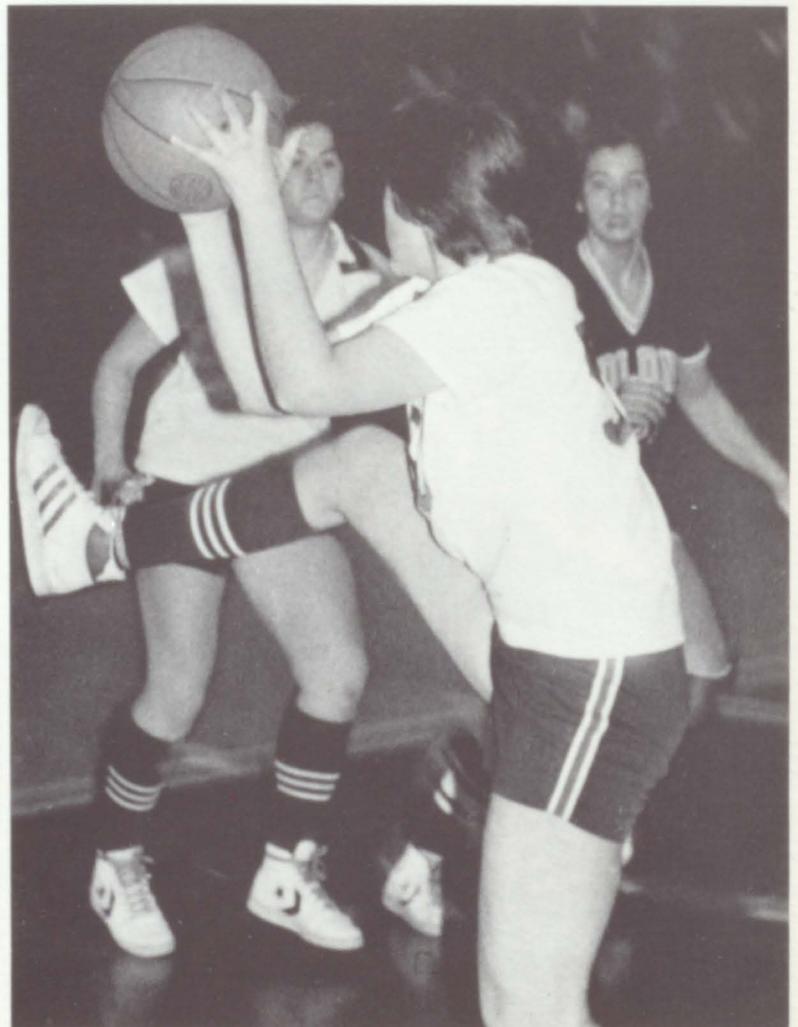

The team worked hard throughout the entire season, but even with all the hard work there was a lot of fun, too.

Some of the highlights of our season were our hard-fought victory over BFA, and going into overtime with Rice and coming so close to defeating them.

Many thanks go to our first-year coach Marge Winders. Her enthusiasm was great. Also thanks go to Mr. Atkins for all of the extra time he spent with us.

All of the players look forward to next year with anticipation of a successful season.

It was a building year for the Tide's varsity basketball team. The season started without one senior on the entire squad.

The first half of the season confirmed the young Tide's inexperience as we were continually beaten by the powerhouses of the division, including Essex and South Burlington. Our team's lack of height also contributed to the poor showings. With the tallest man on the team being only 6'1", we simply gave away too many inches to much taller clubs.

However, the second half of the season saw our young squad develop into a respectable team. Overcoming our inexperience and compensating for the lack of height, we played exciting games with teams that had dominated them during the first half of the season.

Although sporting a poor record our team always kept a positive attitude and learned much about the game from Coach Fran Pinard and assistant Coach Dave Batchelder. With all players coming back next year, Spaulding should be able to look forward to a successful basketball team in 1983.

The 1981-82 varsity wrestling team had a .500 average with five matches and the state tournament yet to be met.

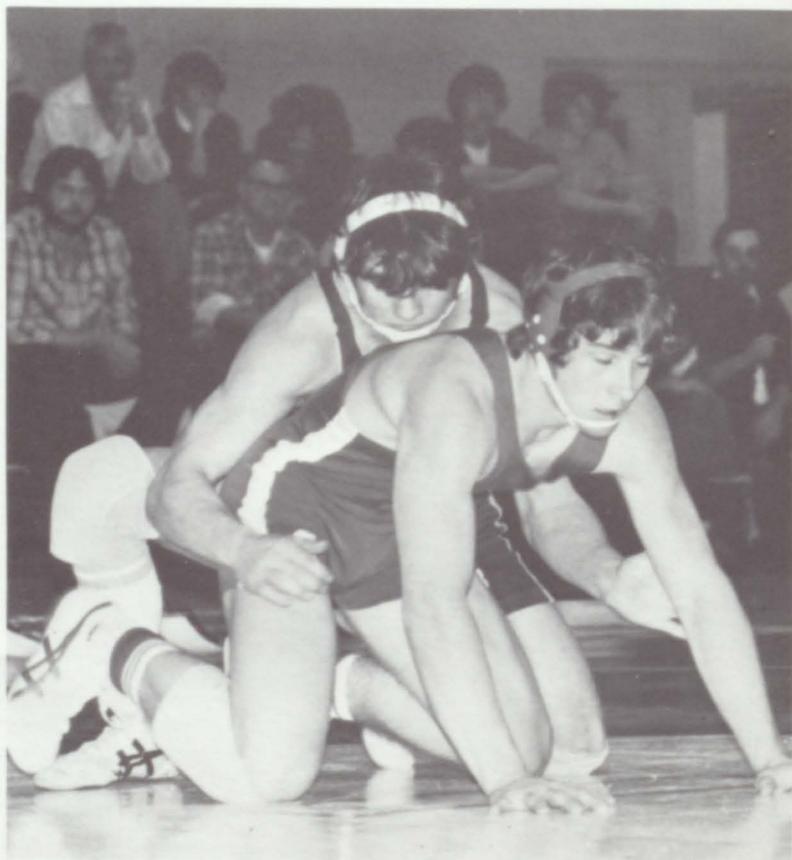

The varsity team went to tournaments in Middlebury, Sanford, ME, and Peru, NY, where some of our wrestlers did really well. As a team we didn't expect to take the states, but we did expect respectable finishes from Brian Ouelette, Ramie Hutchinson, and co-captains Dale Smith and Paul Pelkey.

Our coaches, Chuck Welch and Mike Melkonian helped us a lot by showing us new moves and making us work hard in practice.

We were hurt by having to forfeit in the 91 lb. and unlimited weight class all year. The Tide lost three senior wrestlers but experienced J.V.'s will fill the spots next year.

Wrestling requires much dedication, discipline, and dieting, with hours of hard practice. The big test of all these is the one on one during the matches. There is not the glory of fan-filled bleachers, but there is much team spirit and individual satisfaction.

— Paul Pelkey

Winning is worth the pain!

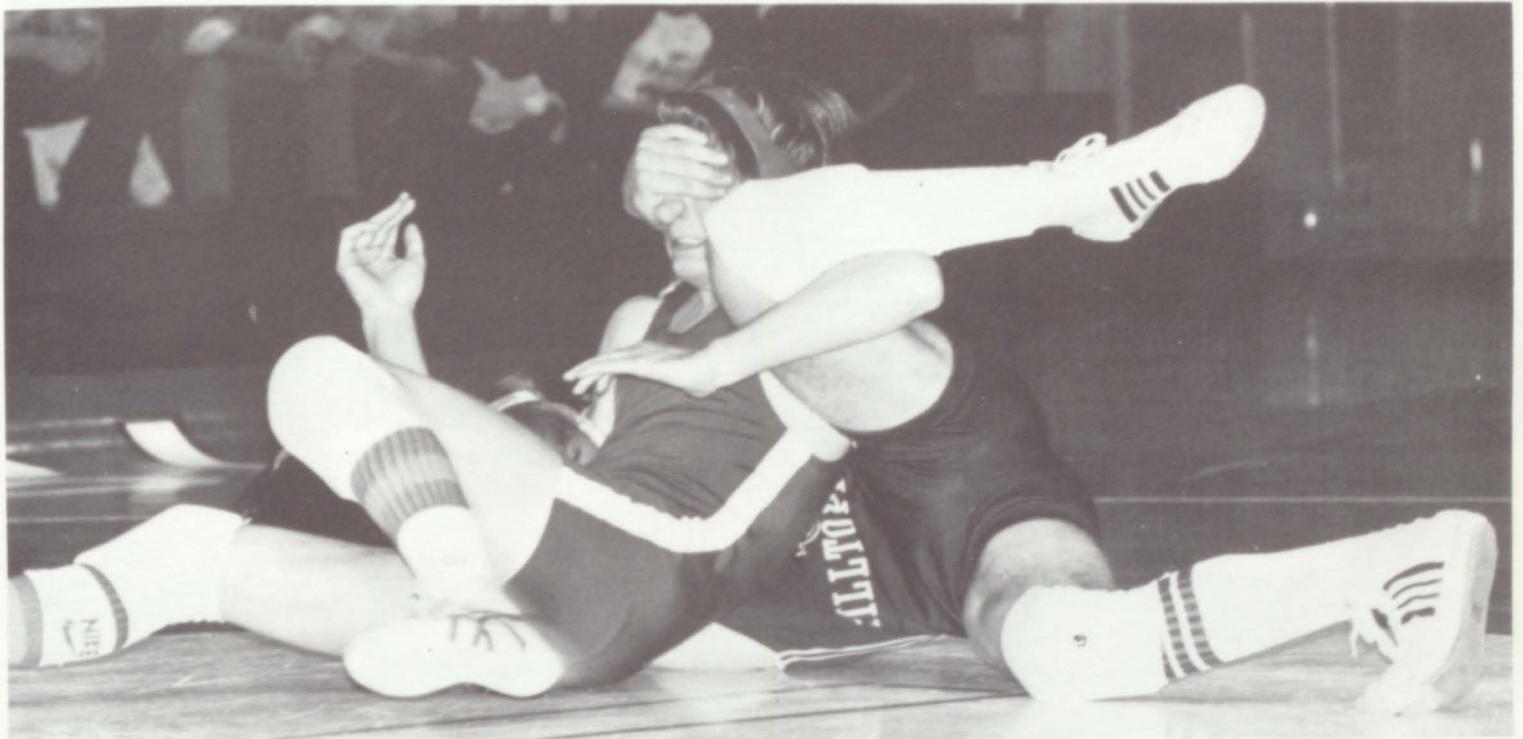

This season Spaulding had another good turn out for the J.V. wrestling squad. The wrestlers that withstood the exhausting practices began the competitive season in a funvitational tournament at Essex. The entire squad was successful.

In January we attended a tournament held in Colchester. We received much guidance from our new coach Mike Melkonian. He was especially pleased that every wrestler from Spaulding placed in his respected weight class.

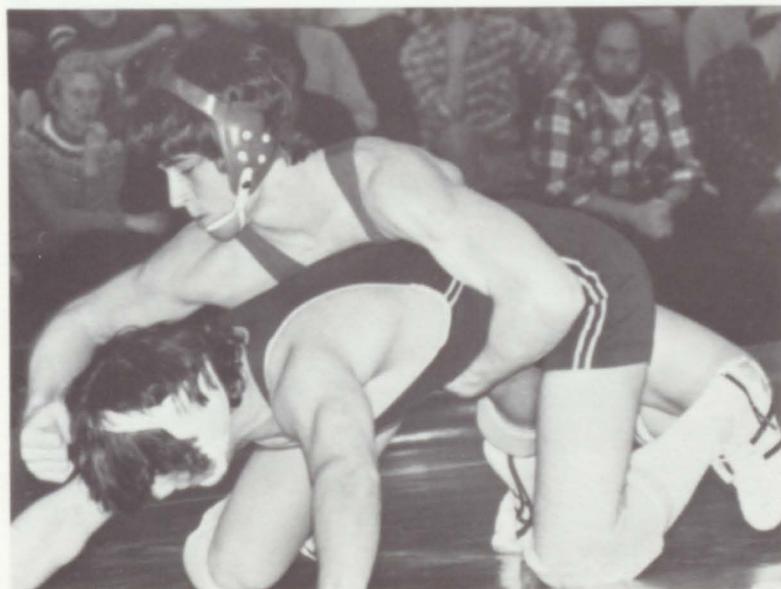

We wrestled every chance we got during a dual match or a double dual. Due to the shrinking size of J.V. squads, we matched with any opponents we could and had to be prepared to fill in a varsity spot.

With continued hard work many of this year's J.V.'s will be in a varsity slot next season.

With try-outs over, and the basketball season opening, we cheerleaders anticipated some fantastic three months ahead of us.

We wanted to have a new image, and what better way to start than to order new uniforms. We waited on pins and needles for them, but when they finally arrived, we couldn't wait to send them back!

It was much to our surprise when we found out that three strong senior boys were interested in cheering on the teams with us. We thought it was a great idea, and it certainly would have changed our image. As the season got moving, the idea dwindled. Thanks anyway guys.

To add new moves to our routines, our coach had the great idea that we do a split cheer. That was great for the fortunate few who could do the difficult. For those of us who couldn't, all our coach could say was “stretch!”

One of the most remembered parts of the season is the bus rides. There was always a big race to get the fourth seat, just like there was always the same few in it. Three or four cheerleaders kept the bus in an uproar whether it was over ridiculous commercials, playing cards or cheering on the team.

Out of unity.

As the '81-'82 basketball season unfolded, the Tide J.V. cheerleaders enthusiastically cheered at all home boys games and varsity girls games.

We were indeed a unique squad, being well organized and spirited. Although our time and effort was not always realized, we cheerleaders provided more support to our teams than almost anyone.

We were proud to cheer whether our teams won or lost. We feel honored that we represented SHS and all of its spirit.

The Class of 1983

"YYZ" RUSH

The junior class of '83 has been working together for the past three years and has held many fundraising events. Among these was a car wash at the Tower that resulted in some very wet people! We sponsored a Barre Town — Barre City faculty basketball game that gave the teachers a chance to show off some pretty fancy moves. We also sold Spaulding buttons, and had two very successful food sales with munchies that even Mr. Maiola couldn't resist! All of these activities were met with a lot of enthusiasm from our class.

We're also proud to say that last year we won the school spirit contest by being the class to wear the most red and blue — and of course had the most spirit!

The goals we've set are very simple ones. To put on the best Junior Prom Spaulding has ever seen and to have a memorable Senior Formal, are just a few. Also, to keep showing the spirit that's made us the number one class at Spaulding High School!

Look out for the Spaulding juniors. We are armed with another year of sophistication, and we are dangerous. As juniors, we have dealt with school policies for two years and have learned the loopholes of the system. With upperclassmanship comes clout.

For instance, the frequently-tardy-for-homeroom stunt. The second bell has rung and the typical junior is typically late for homeroom. He dashes down the stairs for Junior Hall to his destination — usually a homeroom in some far off corner of the school. He is in the general area when the tardy bell rings. Late once again he chirps a “hello” to the homeroom teacher he has known for two years and slides into his desk. If he is lucky, the tardiness goes unnoticed.

Study halls can be found with surprisingly few juniors in them. Some have migrated to the guidance office, some to the library, and others have . . . escaped study hall altogether with the aid of an all-year pass. Yes, with a little signed piece of paper, one can become free from those rows and rows of tiny, cramped desks to relax in an empty classroom or help a teacher in some activity. One can also break out of study hall to visit the Carriage Room — that wonderful retreat away from the crowded cafeteria.

A junior knows many of the Spaulding staff members from the past two years of classes or confrontations. This definitely puts one at ease. Unique situations or problems can be handled on a more personal level. A lot of the rigidity of school policy becomes more flexible.

One's junior year is a year to look forward to and to later look favorably back on. A junior has settled into high school — can be having the time of his life.

The junior year was a very exciting year. Part of the reason for this was because by the third year of high school most students got their driver's licenses. A license allows one more freedom, provided . . . that we can get a car.

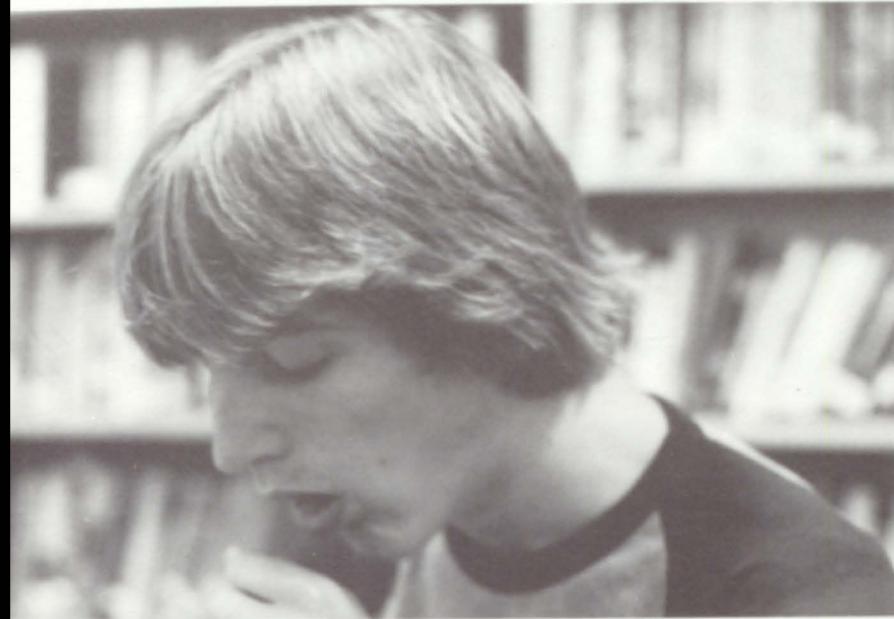

Some students may have gotten a job and worked to save money so they could buy their own car. Those whose parents had a few extra dollars might have been so fortunate as to find a car of their own parked in the driveway on their birthday. But the majority of the students rely on being able to borrow "good ole" mom and dad's car.

If you were in the position where you used your parent's car and you felt you had to go somewhere, you might have approached the situation with such tact as: "Hey mom, can I use the car, I'll be back in a little while?" and before mom had a chance to answer the front door had slammed shut and the keys were already in the ignition. Others might have had to be a bit more persuasive and might have found it necessary to consent to doing a few extra chores around the house. However car priveleges were gained, they were certainly appreciated and came in handy by the time the junior year came.

As juniors, we seemed to be a pretty diverse and divided group. Sometimes it's even possible to feel that one doesn't have much in common with the rest of the junior class. But rest assured! Whenever those sort of depressing thoughts begin to rear their ugly heads, the bell will soon ring and one finds oneself in American Studies.

Every student must take American Studies, in some form or other, before graduation. When two juniors who appear to have nothing in common enter their American Studies class they suddenly become comrades in misery. In this class it's possible to find the chic dressed preppie comparing last minute cheat notes with the blue-jean wearing AC/DC fanatic. American Studies is a great conversation topic to start on when with another junior. We can exchange horror stories on the Constitution, Nationalism or American Literature tests, for example, that freshmen and sophomores just can't grasp until they've been there themselves.

American Studies perhaps isn't always the most interesting subject at Spaulding High, but it's a necessary evil. If it serves no other purpose it at least gives us something in common to complain about.

"WHY ME?"

"WE'VE GOT MORE IN '84" stickers seem to have attached themselves all over the school. The Class of 1984 does indeed seem to have more, and more, all the time. The sophomore class has really gotten its act together since freshmen year. We didn't do too well our first year in raising money for our class. Yet in just one fund raiser during our sophomore year we doubled the minimal sum we had so far earned.

We have a lot of activities planned for our sophomore year since our Junior Prom is next year. We have set a high goal for earning money for the prom and we plan on reaching that goal. More important, we want the Class of 1984 to be remembered as having had the best Junior Prom Spaulding has ever seen.

The attitude of our class has changed a great deal over the past year. We have all become much closer. We want to work together to make things happen so as to remember our years at Spaulding.

The Class of 1984 has definite, positive qualities. We have togetherness, determination, and a lot of spirit.

Let's make our Junior Prom and Senior Formal the very best we can. Go for it '84 . . . after all, we have got more!

As we walked down the hall, we no longer worried about being at the bottom of the totem pole. We are no longer the freshman that we were only a few months before. We were finally upperclassmen, finally sophomores. We no longer dreaded Slave Day or the Freshman Reception. We no longer had to sit on the floor during assemblies in the gym. We became involved in such activities as football, which many of us were too shy to participate in our freshman year. (By the way, our J.V. football team finished the season with a five win and three loss record, having a final victory of 18-6 over our rival Montpelier.)

We also had a new sense of pride in our class. Our class worked hard over this past year, having several fund raisers for our Junior Prom and Senior Formal. The Class of 1984, we feel, has the most spirit of all four classes in the school.

Being a sophomore was . . .
 coming to school the first day and knowing our way around.
 the higher expectations our teachers had as they reminded us that we weren't freshmen anymore.
 choosing class rings.
 taking Driver Ed. and having cold feet at the last minute.
 knowing ourselves the best we ever have.
 having a good feeling about ourselves.
 joining different clubs and meeting new friends.
 enjoying ourselves.
 knowing whether or not to talk back to a teacher.
 giving the freshmen a hard time and being glad that we're past Slave Day.
 being the experienced players on a J.V. team.
 getting psyched about Spaulding sports.
 being a sophomore was looking back and almost not remembering graded school.
 it was looking forward with excitement and anticipation to the next two years.

Well, we've made it. Made it through another year at good old Spaulding High. This year we really started to grow up. We felt more like a part of the school.

Remember when we were freshmen? What a joke . . . but of course we weren't typical freshmen. We were less clumsy, less squirrely, and of course more mature. That made it all the more fun to tease this year's freshmen. Still, watching them was kind of like looking back on ourselves, wasn't it?

This was the year we got our class rings. A lot of us can drive now — or soon will. The teachers have more respect for us since we've gained new status. Really moving up in the world, aren't we? Suddenly, Seniorhood doesn't seem all that far away. Before we know it we'll actually be juniors — UPPERCLASSMEN! We've done O.K. so far, and surely everyone agrees that the Class of '84 is really great. Let's hear it for the Tide!!

The Class of 1985

"PROBLEM CHILD" AC/DC

The Class of 1985 jumped right into the spirit of Spaulding by launching an M&M sale early in the year. We plan on many other fundraisers through the year too. We are planning ahead so as to have a good amount of money available for our upcoming social activities.

Unfortunately, we started our freshmen year with a less than admirable image. We are improving this right away by planning positive class activities to motivate and bring our class together. The class officers plan to visit all the freshmen English classes and talk to our classmates about bettering the image of the Class of 1985.

We want our high school years to be as productive and enjoyable as they can be. We are ready and willing to work hard to make them just that. Let's hear it for our class, the Class of '85.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if . . .
 . . . the one day you forget your locker key, your locker partner isn't absent.
 . . . the one day you don't do your English homework your teacher forgets to collect it.
 . . . the one day you're sick is the day your teacher decided not to give any homework, so you have none to make up.
 . . . the one day you forget your algebra book, you don't need it.
 . . . the one day you didn't study for a history test is the day your teacher forgets to make it.
 . . . the one day you forget your gym clothes you don't have to change.
 . . . the one day you oversleep is the only day the school is closed because of a blizzard.

There were English assignments which we forgot about, Biology tests we studied for until midnight, Latin declensions learned during lunch, and Algebra classes that made us confused.

We could watch Mr. Seeley's eyebrows for an hour, listen to Mr. Comley's stories, count Mr. Law's "all right's" or argue with Mr. Maiola.

Lunch was a lot of fun too. There we sat while it rained chocolate milk, or tried to figure out what it really was that they were serving.

There was Slave Day to look forward to and the Freshmen Reception to wonder about.

The freshmen year was a lot of fun and it was just a preview of what is to come (hopefully).
